U.S. Representative William Hungate (D., 9th District) will speak Friday at 11:45 a.m. in 105 Benton Hall on "The Reorganization of Congressional Power" as part of the Century III series. Thursday and Friday, April 3 and 4, sociologist Dr. Robert Cook and Representative William Clay will highlight a special installment of Century III, "Requiem for the City: Memorial or Monument?" Time and place have yet to be determined.

Threatened Expulsion of Council CIRUNA Representatives Withdrawn

The controversy involving the loaning of $100 of Central Council funds to CIRUNA (Council on International Relations and United Nations Affairs) representative Mike Shower was settled Tuesday in a conference between Shower and Council members.

Representative John Heithaus agreed to withdraw his motion offered at the Council meeting last Sunday to expel Shower after clearing up with Shower what Shower had termed a "gross misunderstanding" surrounding the loan.

The controversy arose after Shower had received permission from members of the Executive Committee for approval of the $100 loan to attend a Model Midwest United Nations conference in Washington D. C. March 4. When a request for approval of the loan failed to be brought up for consideration at the March 1 Council meeting, Shower was advised by Dean of Student Affairs David Ganz that the Executive Committee could authorize the expenditure since no expenditure was involved. The loan is to be repaid by CIRUNA funds from another university.

Members of the Executive Committee contacted by Shower okayed the loan, apparently interpreting the request as a promise to approve the loan in a formal committee meeting.

After Shower had been granted the loan through a travel voucher approved by Dean Ganz and had departed for Washington, the Council officers learned at their meeting March 4 that a check had already been given to Shower.

The officers brought the situation to the Council meeting last Sunday. Heithaus' expulsion motion was tabled until Shower could appear at the next meeting to explain the matter.

The Tuesday conference cleared up the misunderstanding, with all parties indicating that no improper intentions were involved.

The motion to expel Shower was the first attempt to expel a Council representative from the body.

SAPC Posts Open

Applications for positions on the Student Activities Planning Committee for 1970-1971 academic year are being accepted in room 117, Administration Building until Friday, April 13. Applicants must have at least a 2.2 gpa and plan to return to UMSL next year.

The Activities Planning Committee is responsible for budgeting and planning the Noonday Forum, the film series and other social activities. Seven students will be selected for next year's committee.

Questions may be directed to Phil Riek, present committee chairman, or to Stephanie Kreis, Director of Student Activities.

YAF To Probe Student Fee Allocations

The UMSL chapter of the Young Americans for Freedom is planning to investigate the allocation of funds from the Student Activities Fee, YAF president Lee Buchschacher announced at the March 15 meeting of the Central Council.

The investigation, Buchschacher said, will attempt to determine "who gets what" from the Student Activities Fee; it will particularly study the funding policies of the Central Council, with an emphasis on the relationship between the size of organizations and the amount of money granted to them.

Buchschacher told the Current that repeated unsuccessful efforts by YAF to gain funds from the Council prompted the decision to investigate spending policies.

Council treasurer Gail Goldstein said Tuesday, March 17, that she first learned of the YAF budget request for $50 at an executive committee meeting March 1, two weeks before Buchschacher announced YAF's impending investigation.

When the YAF budget request was brought up as old business at the March 15 Council meeting, Buchschacher withdrew the request, saying that YAF could not accept funds from a body which it was about to investigate.

"I think it's typical for universities to bring on and pay for left-wing speakers, but not to bring right-wing people," Buchschacher later said.

Stephen Burns, Republican state representative from the 42nd District and state chairman of YAF, will serve as a consultant to YAF for the inquiry.

In other business, the Council defeated a motion by treasurer Gail Goldstein which would give "the power to set-up a committee to draw up the Central Council budget for next year" to the treasurer.

Miss Goldstein had urged the adoption of the motion because adequate funding for the Central Council requires preparation for the upcoming University budgeting process. She blamed the defeat of the motion on personal difficulties with other Council members, saying, "It's a shame that when someone tries to do a little work that these efforts are stopped strictly because of personal differences."

Miss Goldstein also announced that she will present a detailed report of the Council's finances at the next meeting, April 5.

Rita Swiener, President of the Evening College Council and ECC representative to the Central Council, objected to the procedure for filing candidacy for April's election of Council members. Miss Swiener pointed out that room 117, Administration Building, where applications are available, closed at 5 p.m. Arrangements were later made to keep the room open until 8 p.m.

The Council also approved an additional $854.50 grant to Students for Environmental Action. This brings this group's total allocation to $1,129.50, the largest outlay approved by Central Council. SEA has received $225 of this money as a loan.

Action Incomplete

Faculty Approves ROTC--Off-Campus

A special meeting of the Faculty Senate will not be held to consider the remaining two points of a report from the student-faculty Ad Hoc Committee on ROTC, according to Dr. J. Neal Primm, head of the executive committee.

Instead, Dr. Primm said that action on the two points of faculty status for ROTC instructors and ending commissioning ceremonies at graduation would be taken at the regular meeting of the Senate April 9.

At last Thursday's meeting, the Senate rewrote three recommendations on ROTC presented for consideration by the ad hoc committee and substituted their own proposals.

As the discussion surrounding the recommendations became lengthy, several members left due to the lateness of the hour, resulting in the loss of a quorum before discussion on the other two points and final adoption of all recommendations as a whole could be accomplished.

The ad hoc committee, headed by Dr. George Witteried (Business), had recommended that UMSL continue to cooperate with Washington University in a transfer program that enables a student to earn up to 12 hours of credit in the Air Force and Army ROTC programs there.

An amendment offered by Dr. Lyman Sargent (Political Science), was substituted for the committee recommendation. The amendment calls for UMSL to continue the Washington University transfer program but does not mention academic credit for the courses.

The Senate, in a tie vote broken by Dr. Primm, adopted a substitute motion prepared by Dr. Edward Costello that all ROTC facilities here be located off campus and that all direct and indirect costs incurred be repaid by the Department of Defense.

The motion adopted reverses the committee recommendation that ROTC facilities be located on campus provided that a suitable contract is negotiated with the Defense Department. The federal government would have been required to pay "its proportionate share" of costs involved in order that the "very limited resources" of the university would not be strained.

Witteried pointed out that it was the feeling of the committee that the cost of facilities should be borne by the government while the university would provide secretarial and administrative services.

Several members expressed concern that the location of facilities here would aggravate the present crowded conditions. "We're crowded and we're broke," Sargent reminded the Senate.

After amending the committee recommendation on a maximum of 12 credit hours for ROTC to make the credit subject to the approval of the curriculum committee and faculties of each school, the Senate by a 21-19 vote defeated the proposal.

Goldstein Offers Resignation; Sites' Personal Disputes'

by Mike Jones,
Current Staff Writer

In a frequently heated discussion among Central Council members following the March 15 meeting, Council treasurer Gail Goldstein offered to resign if president Sam Bommarito can find a qualified replacement. The Council treasurer is appointed by the president with the approval of the Council. Miss Goldstein has threatened to resign in the past, citing a personal dispute with Bommarito.

The Council meeting was adjourned for lack of a quorum after several students left the meeting. The walk-out occurred when a motion to give Bommarito a vote of confidence was introduced.

The proposed vote of confidence was in reaction to an article in last week's Current in which some Council members, including Miss Goldstein, expressed dissatisfaction with Bommarito's leadership and suggested that his $100 a month salary be suspended.

Bommarito stated that he felt that the walk-out indicated that his opponents didn't have enough strength to defeat a vote of confidence.

Before the meeting, Bommarito said he was aware of some discontent over his leadership since the beginning of the semester. However, he felt that only a minority of Council members are dissatisfied with his performance.

Referring to statements in the Current article, Bommarito stated that "if people really believe what they stated, they would bring up a proposal to take away my salary."

Responds to Critics

In response to criticism that he has not worked enough to earn his salary, Bommarito cited his activities since the March 1 meeting of the Council. These included serving as a marshal at the ROTC referendum, a trip to Columbia, and helping to establish a health course. Bommarito stated that he also spent time expediting action on permanent student ID's and a speaker system for the platform on the hill, as well as writing bylaws for election procedures.

'Behind the Scenes'

Bommarito admitted that he has not spent as much time in the Student Activities offices as he did last semester. "I'm student teaching and I can't cut classes like I used to," he stated. He added that he has spent more time working "behind the scenes."

Bommarito said he felt the Council was "heavy with criticism. Ninety percent of Central Council meeting time is useless bickering and interpersonal quarrels."

Report on Library Improvements Sent to Driscoll

Four major recommendations for the library submitted in a report by the ad hoc library committee to the Faculty Senate March 12 were approved.

The four proposals are: the employment of a Director of Libraries and a full-time accountant; conversion to an automatic ordering system; carpeting; and the ordering of all books from this campus rather than through Columbia.

The committee listed several other suggestions, but termed "most important" the four recommendations. The Faculty Senate was asked by the committee to back the proposals, and encourage the Chancellor "to view these recommendations as top priorities."

The report came after a five-month study conducted by the committee, and included the suggestions made by a consultant who studied the library two days in January. The consultant was Mr. Mark Gormley, Director of Libraries. The responsibilities of the Director would be to administer and supervise the overall operations, work in collections development to co-ordinate the Library, Archives, and future programs, and to plan and implement automation.

The hiring of an accountant-bookkeeper was recommended to give the library the ability to "provide exact status of its (the Library's) fund accounts" and "to provide for the organization of this information. The committee advocated the hiring of an accountant beginning in the 1970-71 school year.

Tied in with this proposal was the recommendation that the library dissociate itself from the library in Columbia. "Our consultant clearly indicates that each library administration must have its own order department and must be its own agent to provide efficient service," the report stated.

A new ordering system was also outlined in the report. The committee advocated using an "automatic" acquisitions program, which would assure "the orderly and complete acquisition of non-serial materials as they are published, i.e. while they are in print and at reasonable cost. Only by developing a blanket ordering system of this type can the library anticipate the requirements of its patrons for current books."

The report mentioned that the libraries at UWM and Washington University use the blanket system. "Both libraries report that such plans have resulted in an increase in the rate of book acquisitions without any increase in staff," the report stated. "UMSL could well use the man-hours saved thereby (library staff and faculty) in a rational building of the retrospective collection."

Carpeting for the library was advocated to cut down the noise factor, with "first priority" to be given to the marble staircase and the third floor.

Other recommendations listed in the report included better lighting, extension of library hours until 2:00 a.m., rearrangement of stacks and tables to cut down on noise, the establishment of areas for micro-print readers and for storing and listening to recordings, and the placement of all government documents in the document section.

The establishment of "reshelving" areas on each stack level, development of a new security system, banning faculty loan privileges to graduate students and teaching assistants, and the scheduling of tours through the library for new students during Orientation Week, were more proposals listed in the report.

Folksinger Don Cooper, now on tour with Blood, Sweat, and Tears, will perform in the cafeteria this weekend, March 20 and 21, at 8:30 p.m. He will perform two shows of 45 minutes each. There will be no admission charge to the coffeehouse concerts, sponsored by the Student Activities Planning Committee.

Changes In ECC Elections

A constitution which would provide for elected representatives is being written for the Evening College Council. Membership on the Council is presently open to all evening students.

Under the new constitution one representative to the Council would be elected for every 500 evening students. Officers would be elected from the body of representatives.

Evening College Council president Rita Sweiner stated that the move was being made to increase the influence of evening students on decisions such as the budgeting of Student Activities funds. Miss Swiner said that she had been told by "the administration and the Central Council that the Evening College Council is not representative enough when it is open to everyone."

Dispute On Draft Board Notification Ends

The controversy surrounding the registrar's notification of a deferred student's draft board if the student leaves school was ended this week when the UMSL Alliance for Peace agreed to a compromise on the matter.

Although the Alliance would prefer no notification from the registrar, spokesman said that they would accept the offer of assistant registrar Glen Allen to indicate on the request form for a student deferment that the university would report to draft boards if a student left school.

The dispute between the Alliance and Allen had centered around whether or not there was a specific Selective Service regulation requiring the university to notify draft boards on drop-outs. Allen had contended that the certification of a request for a student deferment obligated his office to inform the draft boards.

stitution would be held later this semester.

Parking Garages Open to Students

The parking garages are now open for student parking, Chief of Traffic, Safety and Security James J. Nelson announced this week.

"The parking garages have been designated as the east garage (on the east side of the Administration Building) and the west garage (in the back of the campus). There is one entrance and one exit for each garage," Nelson said.

"The entrance for the east garage is from upper lot V on the east drive and the exit is on the lower level emptying into faculty lot III and the east drive. The south ramp on the west drive is the entrance for the west garage and the north ramp is the exit," Nelson continued.

There are arrows on the floors designating the direction of the traffic flow and eventually Chief Nelson hopes to have arrows and

Replacements for Foreign Language Requirement under Study in Arts and Sciences

A proposal to provide alternatives to the present 14-hour foreign language requirement by allowing substitution of integrated bloc courses is now under consideration by a student-faculty Administrative-Articulation Committee of the college of Arts and Sciences.

Under the plan now being discussed, a student would be permitted to take four courses from various departments related in the area of subject content, such as urban studies, race studies, or classical studies. The courses would be subject to departmental selection and control.

Committee members favoring the proposal feel that the bloc program would serve to provide a different viewpoint. They pointed out that one of the most common arguments in favor of a foreign language requirement was that it presented a liberalized view of the world to students. This new program, they feel, will serve the same purpose.

The committee members indicated that a student would be required to take the bloc courses in an area outside of his major area or a closely related field.

They said that decision to implement a bloc program would be left to the discretion of each department. This was necessary, clear marking on the posts. Parking spaces are designated by yellow lines.

"The same rules that apply to the lots will be enforced in the garages. These consist of using only one parking space, head-in parking and the use of a student permit or payment of a daily parking fee. I would also like to emphasize the use of caution on the ramps as the turns are somewhat tight and the use of the entrance and exit ramps for that purpose only," Nelson finished.

they commented, because a foreign language provided necessary academic values in certain studies.

Although no formal hearings are being planned by the committee, the members indicated that the suggestions and ideas of students are welcome.

Faculty and administrative members of the committee include

Dr. Lyman Sargent, Dr. John Boswell, Dr. Robert Hight, Mrs. Ruth Boothby, Dr. Harvey Friedman, Dr. Ronald Arnatt, Dr. Robert S. Bader, Dr. Edward B. Costello, and Dr. David L. Allen.

Debaters Go to National Tourney After Winning State Title

UMSL has been invited to participate in the National Novice Tournament at the University of Chicago April 11, 12 and 13. The tournament is for first year debaters only. Among the 55 teams in the tournament are representatives from Sanford, USC, UCLA, U. of Georgia, Wake Forest, Harvard, Princeton, Brown, Colgate and Michigan State.

UMSL will be represented by the team of Mike Beatty and H.D. Felber. The two this season have compiled a 44-16 record, won three tournaments and eight awards.

They have defeated teams from LSU, VMI, Vanderbilt, City College of New York, Northern Illinois U., Iowa State, U. of Arkansas, and most of the colleges in Missouri.

Felber is a business major, formerly a Baptist pre-ministry student. Nicknamed "Harvey the Hustler" he is one of the best pool players on campus.

Beatty is a professional judo instructor, formerly ranked fourth in the nation, majoring in philosophy. His hobbies include writing music, playing the guitar and doing imitations.

UMSL captured the state championship at Southeast Missouri State College March 12, 13 and 14. The tournament was open to all colleges and universities in Missouri, and included teams from Washington U., St. Louis U., and UMC.

The duo of Mike Kruger and Bob Hausladen, both sophomores, captured the senior division title by defeating host SEMO in the semifinals and UMKC in the final round.

In the junior division, the team of Jim Scott and Marlou Davis took third place with a 5-1 record. They defeated teams from Central Missouri, Meramec Community College, Missouri Western, Southwest Baptist, and Florissant Valley Community College.

The team of Beatty and Felber finished in fourth also 5-1. Their victims included UMKC, William Jewell, Missouri Western, St. Louis U., and Meramec.

Bob Hausladen was named state extemporaneous speaker at the tournament. This brings the total number of awards to 29 for Rivermen debaters. The team cumulative record is 111-56.

Mike Kruger and Bob Hausladen proudly display the first place trophy they won last weekend in the state speech tournament at Southeast Missouri State College. The UMSL pair won first place in the senior division in debate.

Hearnes' Denial of $1.3 Million Budget Deepens Fiscal Crisis--Weaver

Governor Warren Hearnes' denial of $1.3 million University of Missouri budget increase has worsened an already serious financial crisis, University President John C. Weaver told the Board of Curators last Friday.

Weaver said the Governor will ask the General Assembly to maintain University spending at the present $80.7 million level. State Budget Director John C. Vaughn rejected a request for the $1.3 million increase in a letter to President Weaver March 3.

"Now we'll have to look for all possible ways to get economy," Weaver said. "The administrative staff is hard at work to find ways to begin retrenchment."

At the Board's February meeting Weaver had warned that a limited increase would require curtailing enrollment and refusing demands for higher salaries. An earlier cut in requests from $103.4 to $82 million was a "severe blow to the welfare of the institution," Weaver said.

Weaver indicated that the University was planning to use $750,000 of the proposed increase to open new University buildings now under construction. Opening of new buildings requires additional funds in order to furnish heat and light, purchase supplies, hire custodians and security people to provide other necessary services.

The Board of Curators also approved a motion changing the name of the Department of Counselor Education at UMSL to the Department of Behavioral Studies and Research.

that with the limiting of ROTC to off-campus facilities and the decision not to grant any academic credit for ROTC courses that the consideration of faculty status for military instructors is "a moot question."

The proposals, when passed as a group in a report to Chancellor Glenn R. Driscoll, will serve as a recommendation to him, University President John Weaver, and the Board of Curators.

The Central Council voted at its March 15 meeting to table a motion to accept the report of the ad hoc committee on ROTC. Committee member John Heithaus presented the report, noting that "the faculty completely ignored student opinion as shown in the referendum."

Reischauer Calls Withdrawal Solution in Vietnam

Former U.S. Ambassador to Japan Edwin O. Reischauer said that the best way for the United States to end its involvement in Vietnam is through steady withdrawal. Reischauer made his remarks in a March 15 speech at the Jewish Community Centers Association as part of the Liberal Forum series.

The Harvard professor of Asian Studies expressed the belief that "meaningful negotiations" would take place only after withdrawal of all or most of the U.S. troops. "My hope is that as we withdraw, we would create a situation where Hanoi would be more flexible in its demands," he said.

He also pointed out that the American people should make it clear to the President that the withdrawals should continue. The President has pledged to remove 115,000 troops by April 15, Reischauer noted, but it would be a "bad sign" if the President does not make any more pledges for troop withdrawals after April 15.

Reischauer said it would be the "height of folly" if the United States became involved in Laos. He said that if it came to a choice of escalating there or withdrawing, then the U.S. should "get out."

Reischauer said that he hoped the "bitterness of our experience in Vietnam will help us in making policy in the future." He pointed out that the less developed nations are not the political "vacuum" which post-World War II policy makers felt should be controlled by the U.S. and her allies, rather than by the Communists.

He said that the underdeveloped countries are experiencing an increase of nationalism and that the best course for the United States and other developed countries to take is not to get involved in the internal struggles of the nations. "This concept was implied in the Nixon Doctrine last July, I believe," Reischauer said. "We must lessen the gap between the industrialized one-third of the world and the two-thirds of the nations which are not industrial. The more advanced nations should cooperate in our aid to less developed countries, without getting involved in the internal instabilities of those countries."

Stage and Cinema

By Glenn
Davis"Willie Boy" New Western, Falls Short

Tell Them Willie Boy is Here has more to say than the usual western circulating the country nowadays. It attempts to pull the viewers toward the realization that the American Indian is a rare breed and is entitled to equal time in the battle against racial problems in America.

The plot involves an Indian boy named Willie Boy (Robert Blake) and the girl he loves, Lola (Katherine Ross). Her father, like any father, including black or white, does not want Lola to marry Willie Boy for traditional reasons. Willie Boy shoots her father during a quite provocative nude scene and runs off with her.

Robert Redford comes to the rescue by taking a posse after him. Redford plays the deputy sheriff, Cooper, whose father was the ideal to which he has to live up to. Naturally, Cooper has this thing going with the Indian doctor, played by Susan Clark.

There are a few points about the picture which are reminiscent of Redford's former masterpiece, Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid. Many of the scenes appear to have come out of that picture.

Other disappointments are centered around Katherine Ross's performance. Even though she looks the Indian part, I seemed to ask myself: what was the purpose she played and did it actually matter? One might answer yes and no to this question. It was she that made Willie Boy run, producing a slight plot. However, there was a lack of true professionalism stemming from the part she portrayed. In Hellfighters, with John Wayne and Jim Hutton, Miss Ross showed much more promise than any picture before or after.

Robert Blake (In Cold Blood) put in quite a performance as Willie Boy. Even though it doesn't rate with his Truman Capote epic, the

"Lady's Not For Burning" Next Play, In Early April

The University Players will present Christopher Fry's The Lady's Not For Burning on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, April 3, 4, and 5 at 8:30 P.M. in the Benton Hall Theatre. Admission is $1.00 in advance and $1.25 at the door.

The Lady's Not For Burning concerns Thomas Mendip, a discharged soldier who comes to a small town announcing that he has committed (at least) one murder and demands that he be hanged. Shortly afterwards a young girl, acting still is extremely well done. I look for bigger and better things for him.

The biggest reason someone might see Tell Them Willie Boy is Here may and should be Robert Redford. His timely humor is easy to digest and enjoy. Since Barefoot in the Park, Redford has had perfect casting. With each picture he shows that he belongs with the Steve McQueens, Paul Newmans, and Marlon Brandos. Of course, with his blondish locks and all-around good looks, he will be the favorite among the women in the audience.

Other reviewers have rated this picture as "One of the Year's Ten Best." I cannot go along with them but I do feel it was enjoyable. In some places it seemed quite long and drawn out. The scenery was magnificent. All you scenery nuts who saw Easy Rider would appreciate Tell Them Willie Boy is Here. If you just like to see a good picture, then you might stop in and give it a once-over.

Jennet Jourdemayne, is brought before the mayor for practicing witchcraft. Thomas takes a hand by trying to prove how absurd it would be to refuse to hang a man who wants to be hanged and how unreasonable it would be to kill an attractive young lady who does not want to die.

Members of the cast include Bob Krebs, Diane Porter, Ken Correntio, George Dennis, Jennifer Mantle, Bob Singer, and Phil Moriarity. The play is being directed by Mr. Jim Sala, who teaches theatre at Florissant Valley Junior College.

What's so special about Beechwood Ageing?

We must be bragging too much about Beechwood Ageing.

Because we're starting to get some flak about it. Like, "Beechwood, Beechwood... big deal." And "If Beechwood Ageing is so hot, why don't you tell everybody what it is?" So we will.

First, it isn't big wooden casks that we age Budweiser in.

But it is a layer of thin wood strips from the beech tree (what else?) laid down in a dense lattice on the bottom of our glass-lined and stainless steel lagering tanks. This is where we let Budweiser ferment a second time. (Most brewers quit after one fermentation. We don't.)

These beechwood strips offer extra surface area for tiny yeast particles to cling to, helping clarify the beer. And since these strips are also porous, they help absorb beer's natural "edge," giving Budweiser its finished taste. Or in other words, "a taste, a smoothness and a drinkability you will find in no other beer at any price."

Ah yes, drinkability. That's what's so special about Beechwood Ageing. But you know that.

Budweiser is the King of Beers.

(But you know that.)

Special Showing of King Film for Charity Tuesday

The film "King...Montgomery to Memphis" will be shown one night only, March 24, at 8:00 p.m. Theatres showing the film will be the Fox, Shady Oak, Magic Lantern, Mark Twain, Lowe's Mid-City, and the South County and Northland Cinemas.

The film traces the life and works of Dr. Martin Luther King from 1955 to the time of his assassination in Memphis in 1968. Selected passages will be enacted by a group of noted performers including Marlon Brando, Diahann Carroll, Paul Newman, and Sidney Poitier.

All proceeds will be turned over to the Special Martin Luther King Fund, which will be distributed to carry on Dr. King's works and teachings.

A $5.00 donation is requested to view the film. Tickets are available in person or by mail order from the theaters showing the film. Mail orders should include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Checks or money orders should be made payable to "Martin Luther King Film," and not to the theater.

Promoters of the film are encouraging groups to purchase extra tickets and distribute them to impoverished individuals who would otherwise be unable to view the film.

Faculty Member In Free Concert March 22

Pianist Evelyn Mitchell, a member of the UMSL faculty, will be presented in recital at 8:30 p.m. March 22 by the Department of Fine Arts. Her performance, free and open to the public, will be in Benton Hall.

She has been a soloist with the St. Louis Symphony, St. Louis Philharmonic and Little Symphony orchestras, and has frequently performed as a recitalist, often for the New Music Circle here. Miss Mitchell has appeared frequently on tour in Europe and has won a number of awards in international competition.

Her March 22 program will feature Paul Hindemith's rarely performed "Suite 1922" and the demanding "Sonata in F minor" by Johannes Brahms. Various works of Bartok and Debussy will also be included.

A study in construction, by Current photographer Bill Leslie.

Pollution Is Everybody's Problem--Let's Solve It

Dr. Rolf Eliassen, professor in environmental engineering at Stanford University, told the Senate Subcommittee on Air and Water Pollution, "We have to blame it (nonreturnable packaging) on the women, I guess, because they don't like return bottles; so the beverage people have developed glass and plastic nonreturnable bottles. The women like paper bags and other disposable packages, all of which build up refuse quantities." Whether the women of America or the industry "created" all the convenience type packaging is unimportant in recognizing the problems of solid waste pollution.

Another statement will help to illustrate the situation. Dr. John Kenneth Galbraith of Harvard commented recently about the TFX aircraft, alias F-111, "There was no grass-roots demand for a second generation swept-wing aircraft of supersonic capabilities. . . . The initiative obviously came out of the Air Force, possibly from a team at General Dynamics or Boeing working on a set of plans. . . ." Then, more government research results reach the back pages of the newspapers: 23 million tons of sulfur oxides pollute the air yearly; every major city dumps tons of raw sewage daily into the nation's waterways; a billion tons of useless slag from mining industries scour the countryside; the annual garbage bill exceeds 11 billion dollars.

What does this all mean? It simply says that every individual in this nation gets the tail end of somebody else's progress. Depending upon your political leanings, one could scapegoat the ideologies of democracy, capitalism, socialism, communism, or martinism. Nonetheless, you are getting the shaft whether you want it or not.

A problem exists . . . not too difficult an observation for the average person. But how does it affect you? If you are not phased by the prospect of total extinction of the human race, as prophesied by numerous and noted scientists, then read no further. Now, for those of you still with us, we will continue this meager treatise. Man has always been able to rise up and challenge any contingency that has befallen him; the outcomes to date have verified this capacity. However, current scientific information on the true scope of the problem indicate that once the problem becomes super-serious it will be too late to "rise and challenge" it. This is easily explained by the fact that the earth is a finite body - with just so much water, air, and land. One can not drink an ocean, nor have air with more than 20% oxygen, or grow wheat and rice on a mountain top. Once these critical resources are destroyed, the result is very simple to describe: death.

Or, assuming that man will someday recognize this, he could easily exceed the earth's capability to sustain his over-population, and die. If these prophets of doom are correct, then they are justified in using such terms as catastrophic and disastrous. Are you willing to gamble on the possibility that they are wrong?

There is, perhaps, still time to rise and challenge the problem. The estimates range from 15 to 50 years. Next time you buy groceries, think about the glass, paper, aluminum foil, bottle caps, plastic, cans, and left-over food that you give to your friendly garbage man. Where does it go after it leaves the house? Next time you consider having a large family in order to reduce sibling rivalries, think about starvation. Next time you fill up with gasoline, take time to step to the rear of the car and breathe deeply. Next time you pass a chemical plant, oil refinery, steel mill, power plant, etc., think about the fact that they use the same sewer line and you. . . the one designed to handle human waste, and nothing else. You drink and breathe the by-products of progress. How long will it be safe to do that?

No American Involvement in Laos

Even with the lesson of the Vietnam quagmire and the social and political consequences for the United States, the Nixon Administration appears to be escalating American involvement in Laos in an effort to pressure the North Vietnamese into negotiated settlement.

This limited support, according to Administration spokesmen, has been requested by the Laotian government and is purely defensive.

The Administration admits to American bombing and reconnaissance flights but delicately skirts the issue as to whether any combat troops are committed to defending the guaranteed neutrality of Laos. While there may be no soldiers in uniform, it seems highly unlikely that some "volunteers" are in Laos because they enjoy war.

Obviously the Nixon administration will try not to cut its throat politically by becoming heavily committed in a frequently comic opera war between two forces that take turns capturing and trading "strategic" points regularly.

But the effort to force the military hand of the North Vietnamese in pressing for a solution to the Vietnamese war makes us jittery. As Newsweek magazine points out this week, this aggressive policy towards a former neutral buffer that interests no one would upset the cherished hope of successful "Vietnamization."

Why does the United States need to become bogged down once again in Southeast Asia? Have no lessons been learned from Vietnam? The Nixon Administration should take a long, hard second look at its definition of American strategic interests in Laos. America cannot afford the destructive social consequences resulting from another Vietnam.

Theater of the Absurd

Two proposals now before the UMSL community illustrate the variety of directions available to an expanding university. One proposal, the now well-known ROTC program, offers practical military training; the second, a newly proposed drama program, suggests more aesthetic pleasures and skills. The bleak financial condition of this university, however, apparently indicates that only one of these two proposals may be enacted, and we anticipate a great squabble over priorities and merits.

All this, we think, will constitute unnecessary brain strain. The solution is simple: UMSL can accomplish the objectives of both proposals by combining ROTC and drama into a School of Military Theatrics. The benefits of such a combination are varied. First, ROTC trainees could gain great skill in the proper enunciation of drill commands by taking diction lessons from acting coaches; conversely, actors could learn the discipline and drill techniques they need from ROTC drill instructors.

Second, since both the Army and acting require costumes, UMSL could save great quantities of money by purchasing large amounts of olive drab material to be used for both groups.

Another advantage is that both groups would be able to participate in public relations classes, since publicity is so important to both modern drama and modern military. Some class division may be necessary here, however, since the acting establishment is interested in making events known while the military is more interested in covering them up.

The opportunities for joint drama-military productions would also be great. For instance, students could gain acting experience by portraying rioters when ROTC recruits engage in riot control exercises.

The University will be doing a great injustice to its students if it does not avail itself of this opportunity to combine two such worthwhile programs of study. How else can the student gain such practical and artistic training? Here we have the opportunity to have a teacher tell his student to "go out and knock 'em dead" without knowing whether the student is an actor or a soldier. In any event, combined ROTC-drama training would surely bring to UMSL the Theater of the Absurd.

Need for Drama Program Shown By Response to "Shakespeare's Lovers"

of all those connected with the performance, I would like to express our gratitude for this overwhelming warm critical response.

The production, I think, clearly demonstrated the enthusiasm that exists on this campus for drama, both among the participants and the audience, and the key role that theatre has in projecting a favorable cultural image to the St. Louis community. It would be distressing should this enthusiasm be dampened and the present impetus lost. To prevent this, it is imperative that the administration commit itself now to at least a minimal formal dramatic program and begin by acquiring the services of a professional full-time drama co-ordinator, a person to be found already at even the newest junior college. A quality operation cannot be built on the comings and goings of high-priced freelance directors who have no stake in the future of this school or theatre here. Nor can the drama rely on the occasional faculty member who volunteers his time without charge. Neither of these alternatives provides the necessary stability and continuity. The Central Council and the appropriate Senate committee must also cooperate by approving the kind of budget which is necessary to produce genuine theatre rather than merely stage "plays."

Lastly, I would like to indulge in an uncharacteristic fan letter. I declare myself in print to be caught up in a tremendous love affair with all the students involved in the production. Their talent was only exceeded by their willingness to cooperate and work very long and very hard. They are the finest group of young people I have ever worked with, and I am extremely proud of them. In fact, they have made me as proud and happy to be associated with this University as I have ever been. I hope they will accept my affectionate thanks.

John T. Onuska, Jr.
Assistant Professor of English

Letters

Dear Editor,

As the director of An Evening With Shakespeare's Lovers, I would publicly like to thank all those who attended the production and express my regrets to those who had to be turned away this past weekend due to a complete sellout, something that has never happened before for any event on this campus, let alone twice. Over 1500 college and pre-college students, faculty members and friends of the University came to the theater and, if the mail, telephone calls and conversations I have had in passing are any indication, most of them thoroughly enjoyed themselves. For many it was their first visit to the campus and an impressive one. On behalf

NAIA Rules Revisions May Influence UMSL

by Marty Hendin
Associate Sports Editor

According to Athletic Director Chuck Smith, three proposed changes in NAIA national basketball rules will influence the decision of UMSL's Student-Faculty Athletic Committee regarding the question of UMSL's affiliation with the NAIA or NCAA.

These rules, which are being voted on by all NAIA basketball coaches across the country, would eliminate foul throws except in the last three minutes of each half, provide for two free throws on each foul in the last three minutes of each half, and provide a thirty second time limit on offensive plays.

In Smith's opinion, "These rules will split college basketball and create nothing but problems." These problems will be intensified in the case of teams like the Rivermen who played a mixed schedule of NAIA and NCAA teams. The new rules would be employed in games against NAIA opponents and in all playoffs and tournament games, but in games with NCAA opponents, the NCAA rules will be used no matter where the game is played.

The sub-committee studying the NAIA-NCAA affiliation is awaiting the results of the rule change vote before making their recommendation to the whole committee. This sub-committee, consisting of Smith, Dr. Robert Markland (business) and Dr. William Hamlin (English), hopes to have their report ready early in April.

If the Rivermen affiliate with the College Division of the NCAA, they would join opponents such as Eastern Illinois, UICC, LSUNO, SEMO, Southwestern of Memphis, UTM, William Jewell and UWM. While no decision on affiliation has yet been made, Smith prepared for UMSL staying in the NAIA by trying to schedule District Sixteen foe Culver-Stockton, but he was unsuccessful. Smith said that he has been unable to schedule district teams because "They are trying to build an easy schedule."

The coach hopes to complete his 1970-71 schedule when he meets with other coaches at the NCAA tournament finals this weekend. One schedule possibility is rival Drury, however, Smith pointed out, "If we play Drury it will be in St. Louis or not at all."

One game on next year's schedule has already been announced. That will be the season opener December 1 when a St. Louis College doubleheader will be played at the Arena. UMSL will meet SIU-Edwardsville at 7:00 and Washington U. will take on host St. Louis U. at 8:15 in the closest thing to the long-proposed tournament between St. Louis teams. While concentrating on his schedule, Smith has also been working on next year's freshmen. Six high school stars visited the UMSL campus last Friday but have given no definite commitment to the Rivermen. These players are 6-1 Bynum Alumbaugh from Carthage, Missouri High School, who aver-

Golfers Go South for Six

by Mike Olds
Current Sports Editor

The UMSL Golf team heads South for the six day Gulf-American Classic beginning March 30 in Coral Gables, Florida. The southern trip will serve as a valuable tuneup for what Coach Larry Berres considers the most ambitious schedule that any of UMSL's athletic teams have faced.

A glance at that schedule confirms Berres' opinion. One third of 1970's matches will pit the Rivermen against NCAA University Division team, including St. Louis University, Southern Illinois-Carbondale and Bradley University.

Performance in the rugged Gulf-American is an accurate indicator of the calibre of a team. Berres feels that if UMSL can finish in the top twenty at Coral Gables the squad may very well improve on their 1969 record of 11-6-1, despite the improved schedule. The tournament has proven to be especially rough on northern teams since 65 to 70 percent of the competing squads are southern teams which have the advantage of year round play. Northern players begin to fade in the closing days of the Classic because of the strain of playing in hot weather for the first time in several months. The six solid days of golf in the Florida sun do much to whip a golf team into shape. The experience gained in Florida should, according to Berres, "put us two to three weeks ahead of the other teams in his area."

Soccer Tryouts

Spring try-outs for the Riverman Soccer team will be held at 4:00 p.m. Monday, March 23, for any undergraduates interested in playing for UMSL next season. The session will be held at the Forest Park field across from Forest Park Community College. Students interested in trying out must bring their own equipment. For further information call the Athletic Department, 453-5641.

Last year's squad finished 31st of 40 at Coral Gables, a commendable accomplishment considering the quality of the competition which last year included both the team and individual champion of the NCAA. Eight lettermen, including only two seniors, are returning from that team. The seniors, Dennis Chester and Tom O'Hare, anchor a squad which includes juniors Tom Cradick, Stever Loughner and Dough Sollday and sophomores Ron Brewer, Don Marcks and Ron Romacker. The addition of junior college transfer Glenn Pearl should add depth and experience to an already strong squad. Pearl previously played for Missouri Southern when that school was still a junior college. One or two freshmen will be added before the Florida trip to fill out the roster.

Golf Coach Larry Berres told the Current that the golf squad is facing possibly the most ambitious schedule any UMSL athletic team has ever planned.

Tennis Roster Still Open

UMSL Athletic Director Chuck Smith this week announced the 1970 Riverman tennis schedule. The slate consists of ten matches and includes meetings with St. Louis University, Washington University and Southwest Missouri State. The Rivermen will open their season at Washington University with an April 2 match with the Bears.

Coach Gene Williams has been holding practices on the campus courts but, beginning March 23, the site of the workouts will be shifted to Forestwood Park, in Ferguson. There is still time to try out for the team since Coach Williams has not yet finalized his roster. Students interested in playing for the Rivermen may contact Williams at 371-7458 or call the Athletic Department, 453-5641.

All home matches will be held at Forestwood Park. A complete schedule appears on Page 11.
